Well, for the EO, DHS and OSHA need to be invited, since they are Tri-Chairs.

For WVA, if its SDWA, it would be OW, CDC, the State.

Subject: Potential congressional hearings on chemical spill and safety issues

I wanted to give folks a heads up. Per OCIR, the Senate EPW Committee is planning to hold hearings on the WV chemical spill and on the status of the chemical safety/security EO implementation. Tentatively, the subcommittee on Water and Wildlife, chaired by Senator Cardin (MD) would hold a hearing on Tuesday, February 4th to address WV spill and safe drinking water issues. It is not yet decided whether EPA will be invited to testify. Tentatively, on Wednesday, February 12 or Thursday, February 27, a full committee hearing would be held to address the status of implementing the chemical safety/security E.O. EPA and the CSB would be invited to testify. Committee staff are open to EPA suggestions on other witnesses.
